KNOFF'S RULES FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

Some Things They Can Do Or Keep From Doing. For Their Own Protection.

Dr. S. A. Knopf of New York City, the author of the now famous "prize essay" on "Tuberculosis as a Disease of the Masses, and How to Combat It," has recently issued a most excellent circular containing a set of "Simple Rules for School Children to Prevent Tuberculosis." "Every child and adult can help to fight consumption," says Dr. Knopf. School children can be helped by complying with the following rules:

Do not spit except in a spittoon, a piece of cloth, or a handkerchief used for that purpose alone. On your return home have the cloth burned by your mother, or the handkerchief put in water until ready for the wash.

Never spit on a slate, floor, playground, or sidewalk.

Do not put your fingers into your mouth.

Do not pick your nose or wipe it on your hand or sleeve.

Do not wet your fingers in your mouth when turning the leaves of books.

Do not put pencils in your mouth or wet them with your lips.

Do not hold money in your mouth.

Do not put pins in your mouth.

Do not put anything in your mouth except food and drink.

Do not swap apple cores, candy, chewing gum, half-eaten food, whistles, bean blowers, or anything that is put in the mouth.

Peel or wash your fruit before eating it.

Never sneeze or cough in a person's face. Turn your face to one side or hold a handkerchief before your mouth.

Keep your face, hands, and fingernails clean. Wash your hands with soap and water before each meal.

When you don't feel well, have cut yourself, or have been hurt by others, do not be afraid to report to the teacher.

Keep yourself just as clean at home as you do at school.

Clean your teeth with toothbrush and water, if possible, after each meal; but at least on getting up in the morning and on going to bed at night.

Do not kiss anyone on the mouth or allow anybody to do so to you.

Learn to love fresh air, and learn to breathe deeply and do it often.

This set of simple hygiene rules should form a part of the curriculum in every school in the land. Every teacher in New York state should take these and make them a part of her instructions in hygiene.

A GOOD ARTICLE—The Banker and Investor Magazine for August contains an excellent article on "The Rehabilitation of the Salt River Project." It is from the pen of Henri V. Lemmenager, chief draftsman of the U. S. reclamation service and is not as many might suppose, a description of the project, though the article is copiously illustrated with pictures of the different features of it. The article is really an essay on the reclamation work, showing by the results already secured in this valley, and the transformation worked in physical conditions, the great value of reclamation work and the conservation of resources which is a part of the same great principle. Mr. Lemmenager graphically and succinctly relates to the reader how the valley first became a notable irrigation country, through the development of irrigation enterprises by private capital which did not and in the nature of things could not protect or conserve the water supply on which they so much depended. The results were disastrous and where so much was promised in good faith, but little could finally be given. He then comments on the taking hold of the situation by the government, which had ample funds and sought only for the final prosperity of all without immediate direct return to the projectors, as would be necessary in a private enterprise. Finally he relates without any detailed description, a list of the features of the project, completed or under construction, together with the advantages to follow.

ARIZONA'S EXHIBIT AT SEATTLE IN 1908

To Show or Not to Show, That is the Question—The Situation Discussed.

At a recent meeting of the board of trade the committee on expositions was directed to take up with the governor and others who might be interested, and report as soon as possible, its recommendations concerning the advisability of Arizona making an exhibit at the Alaska-Yukon exposition next summer. It was the sense of the board that if anything is done it should be done well and to do it well the work should begin at once. Neither the board nor anyone else who has expressed himself, favors the erection of an Arizona building, but it seems to be a quite general belief that it would pay Arizona to make a good agricultural and mineral exhibit, securing space in the large exhibition buildings for that purpose.

It was suggested that the matter could only be successfully carried out by making it a territorial enterprise, the expense to be paid by the territory and the estimate of $10,000 has been made as the amount required for a creditable display. There is no fund from which such a sum may be taken and the territory can furnish it only by an appropriation of the legislature. This of course nobody can do at this time, even the personnel of the legislature not being known. It was the purpose of the committee however to ascertain the attitude of the governor in the matter of recommending such an appropriation. Though he has made no announcement it is understood he is favorably inclined to the project.

George W. Cowgill, secretary of the board of trade, who formerly lived in Seattle, and has an extensive acquaintance there, has secured blue prints of the fair grounds showing the relative location of the various buildings, together with plans of the mining and agricultural building. He has also secured the proffer of floor space for the exhibits free in both buildings. Though the charge advertised is $1 per square foot in each, Mr. Cowgill after his experience in trying to get together the agricultural exhibit for Albuquerque, suggests that whoever is entrusted with a similar commission for the Seattle fair, should be designated at once so he can begin promptly the collection of his exhibit. If this is not done until after the adjournment of the next legislature it will be too late to secure samples of many things that are available now and others, that to secure which must be arranged for, as the exposition will open before next season's crops are many of them harvested. A mining exhibit can probably be secured after the legislature has finished its work, though the more time the better for either display.

It has been suggested that there should be a commissioner for each exhibit, each to be held responsible for his own, and all bills to pass through the office of the territory, that the expenditure of the money might be faithfully accounted for. To accomplish anything now commissioners will have to be found who will take a chance on the legislature providing the money, and then their appointment would have to be informal, a mere understanding between men, for a commissioner could hardly be appointed with legal authority before the law creating his office was passed. It is this situation that the board is studying over, whether to undertake so much on uncertainties, with the knowledge that when definite action can be taken it will be too late to begin.
